WHAT THE COLLEGE SETTLEMENTS ASSOCIATION DOES

The College Settlements Association reaches out in two directions:

1. To colleges and schools, to awaken and sustain intelligent interest in the settlement movement. To this end the Association maintains chapters in twelve colleges for women and sub-chapters in thirty-three girls' schools; and offers annually to college graduates three fellowships in settlement training.
2. To city neighborhoods, through the varied activities of four college settlements. These settlements depend for their chief support upon local subscriptions, but each receives an annual appropriation from the College Settlements Association.

In addition, the Association makes its influence felt in social legislation, in rural social work, and in the industrial situation.

LITERATURE

Information concerning pamphlets and other literature issued from time to time by the Association may be had on application to Miss Eleanor M. Doty, 567 West 113th Street, New York, N. Y.

If you cannot do active work in a settlement, will you not further such work by joining the College Settlements Association, giving it the support of your annual dues?

The settlements were established by college graduates, but many women with no college affiliations have given generously of their money and their time to the individual settlements, and have expressed their conviction in the value of the settlement movement by becoming members of the College Settlements Association. If you do not belong to the College Settlements Association, will you not fill out the membership pledge to-day, and send it to

MRS. GEORGE C. MACAN, JR.,
202 Taylor Avenue, Easton, Pa.

HEADWORKER'S REPORT

SEPTEMBER in Philadelphia is the end of the summer, rather than the beginning of the winter, season. Hence, though a "fall" month its days are, for the most part, given over to hot weather activities—the rest yard, the play yard, expeditions to the country, flower distributions, etc. The opening of schools and the coming of the important Jewish festival and fast days bring the feeling that the season has changed, even though heat may continue, and by early October the pressure of winter plans and programs is urgent, non-resident helpers are getting into their swing and the question, "Is College began yet?" brings an emphatic affirmative.

In reviewing our impressions of the heated term the Babies' Rest Yard under the care of the Wellesley Nurse is easily first. Its sessions of open air naps continued until September 17 and its tiny nappers made a group of some 160 infants who took naps to the number of 1,225. Baths (417), calls (144) and simple treatments of minor accidents and ill health conditions (83) were adjuncts of the napping business, as were also a Little Mothers' League, a tiny wading pool, and a yard used as a quiet play space for the little mothers and fathers while their babies slept. The final event of the rest yard season was a party given for the parents of the baby beneficiaries. The Wellesley Club of Philadelphia contributed $125 toward the expenses of the Rest Yard. There is some possibility of a winter gift which will provide for following up the summer rest yard work—build a bridge over the winter to connect with next summer, as it were, when there is a strong probability that the Wellesley Club will again send a nurse for the hot season. The yard is here, the supply of babies never fails. The Wellesley Club is the efficient big sister who can so lighten the burdens of the little mothers that their cares become their joys; for when a baby serves as a ticket of admission to a wading pool and a play yard it is often worth while to borrow a baby if your own mother can't provide you. Even boys have done it! And its a canny child who borrows a sleepy baby who naps and fusses not.

Chalkley Hall ran into September on the picnic schedule, though because of poverty the resident household was continued for only seven and a half weeks, and this was possible only because the Children's Country Week Association gave its financial assistance. We are hoping for some opportunity in the real country, with a secure tenure of occupancy, where we may develop our holiday work with more permanence and stability. Mount Ivy furnishes an example which we should gladly follow.

As we spread before us the rapidly expanding program of our house activities we note particularly these items:—

That our system of cooking classes, for which Drexel Institute and Beechwood School send us student teachers, embraces 25 groups—girls, boy scouts, young working women, older women. We have three different rooms fitted up for simple cooking lessons and enroll about 175 pupils.

That the sewing classes number 22 groups and enroll nearly as many pupils as the cooking classes. At both houses the sewing schools are under extremely able and responsible volunteer management.

That the Adult Night School has opened well after a September vacation. It, too, is being splendidly managed by non-resident volunteer help, and a notable proportion of this season's teachers are from the University of Pennsylvania. The Night School enrollment is close to 200.

That the Board of Education has granted us two Kindergartens this fall in addition to the one already established at the Front Street House. This gives us three Kindergartens for which we provide rent, heat, janitor and the fostering care necessary where education is not highly valued. The enrollment here is 135.

That the Board of Health has established a Nurses' Clinic at the Front Street House.

Space fails to enumerate with any fullness many other activities such as Bank Centers, Occupation Clubs, middle-sized Clubs of boys and of girls, Play hours, Saturday Games, Story hours, Circulating Libraries of Books, Pictures and Games, Study hours, Dramatic Clubs, Dancing Socials, Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts, Sanitary Leagues, Women's Clubs, Open House hours. It will be apparent that we rejoice in saying that no year has had a better opening as regards volunteer helpers and interest among the schools in which sub-chapter work has been organized. In this last connection a leaflet has been printed and circulated with good results; and some twenty speaking appointments have been met from the house. We have received also several invitations for our Dramatic Clubs to give their little plays before school audiences.

The winter opens auspiciously in every branch of our work except the Department of Finance. We are very needy. On October first we had a shortage of $800. It is increasing. Every chapter, sub-chapter and individual who can help in any decree to pull us up for this year to at least the algebraic zero point will please note our depressed condition and help a little (or more) on the haul for 1915-'16. We seem unable to stop growing—and growing is expensive even with very careful management.

HEADWORKER'S REPORT

THIS year our prospects are particularly bright for accomplishing some of our long cherished schemes. In the first place we do not anticipate a repetition of the "hard times" of last year, when the material needs of our neighbors filled the whole horizon, and the two large workshops consumed so much of the time of our workers. Then our finances are in a better condition and we can relax our efforts of nearly three years in raising money for the Anniversary Fund. With one mortgage of $34,000 paid last May, $7,000 in mortgage bonds cancelled, and $7,000 on hand for another mortgage of $18,000, although there is still some work to be done in this connection, the burden is not so heavy.

We begin the year too with no debts in our running expense account, and fresh paint in all our houses bearing witness to an increased income. This was not secured last year, however, without much effort; and this year a new and interesting plan is to be tried. A "College Settlement Week" will bring the Settlement before the public in various ways, with a view both to raising money and to stimulating interest in the work—a modified form of "Whirlwind Campaign."

The events will center around a concert and a dance to be given at the Hotel Astor on December 18th, under the auspices of the New York Wellesley Club. During the week there will be a concert in the Bowery theatre to which a chorus of settlement members will contribute several numbers; the children are preparing a play to be given in the gymnasium; meetings will be held in some of the schools; and teas will be given by our friends all over the city and in the suburbs, at which Settlers will speak, and in some cases our own club members who are glad to testify to the value of our work. The co-operation of College Settlement Association members along any of these lines will be welcomed.

In the conduct of the Settlement itself the most interesting feature is the development of a plan for the young men of the Settlement to take over the management of the club house and gymnasium at 86 First Street. It is the logical outcome of our scheme of self-governing clubs that, banded together, they should undertake the direction of their common interests, and this has long been our aim; when the initiative came from the young men themselves, it seemed that the time had come.

The eight clubs of young men in the house had for some time had an Association of very limited powers, but it had not been very effective, and welcomed the suggestion of the Lincoln Club last spring to reorganize on a broader basis. After investigating the men's clubs in all of the larger New York settlements, this club felt that the first step in this direction was to afford a greater opportunity to all club members to serve the Settlement, and a means to utilize the talents, not only of the few who are helping as club leaders, and in other important capacities, but also of the rank and file who were equally willing. This opportunity the management of "86" would provide, and thereby ultimately relieve the house of much care.

The constitution they drew up, embodying these ideas, was adopted by the Association, now known as the Men's Association of the College Settlement, and with a few modifications was accepted by our Executive Committee as the working basis upon which power should be delegated to it. This constitution provides for a Board of Delegates made up of one representative from each of the eight clubs, and five representatives from the "House." This body elects a president and the standing committees; these are all powerful and, as their titles indicate—Law and Order, Activities, Membership, Civic Work, Finance—they exercise a control over the work of the men's clubs at every point. The Board of Delegates have assumed the responsibility for all expenditures connected with the building except coal, janitor's wages and gymnasium instructor's salary, an obligation of about $600.

The "House" is represented on all the committees, but has only the power of the single vote. The workers are thus able to keep in touch with the various plans, and to get the point of view of the club members; and we expect that this relation of co-workers with the members will make unnecessary the exercise of the veto power vested in the Headworker and her associates. While essentially a step towards complete democracy, the whole scheme is besides a method for further training the young men along lines of civic and social responsibility.

That they take it seriously can be seen from the preamble to the Constitution which reads thus:

"This body is organized with the idea in view of repaying in a very slight measure the great debt which its club members owe to the College Settlement."

and the closing paragraph thus:

"This Constitution has many imperfections and omissions, but it is the spirit that we put into the law that is of prime importance, and that only comes from a consideration of the true Settlement spirit."

HEADWORKER'S REPORT

THE faithful readers of annual reports, if any there be, will recall the frequently reiterated hope of Denison House that the Extension Fund might some day be completed, and a new building be added to our present plant—a building to contain not only club rooms, but a large hall suitable for dances, with a stage equipped for dramatic work. The relinquishment of this hope means that we must give up our cherished plans of large neighborhood gatherings at lectures, of dramatic work commensurate in scope with the dramatic ability of the district, of neighborhood dances, of indoor basket ball and athletics for both boys and girls, of suitable rooms for men residents, of additional club rooms for boys and men—plans hard to relinquish after so many years of hope.

There is a certain comfort, however, in settling down to the definite task of building up and intensifying the work already in hand. The house schedule shows forty-eight weekly appointments already arranged for—small dancing classes for boys and for girls, story hour in the afternoon in connection with a lending library for children under Public Library age, story hour in the evening for older boys and girls, and sewing, basketry, and games as occupations for the younger groups. Camp Fire girls and Junior Municipal Leagues are also on the schedule. It is our hope and our plan that the club shall be the instrument by which the boy or girl is led into useful citizenship and fuller, more interesting life.

The Italian and Syrian women's clubs have begun their winter's work with unusual enthusiasm, and large numbers in attendance. The Syrian women are making supplies for the Denison House Clinic and hearing something of the work the Red Cross Society is doing. The Santa Lucia Club for Italian women meets with unabated enthusiasm for social afternoons with music, dancing, light refreshments, and much animated conversation. The Sunday afternoon talks brought in to the house large numbers of young men; we hope that this feature will continue with increasing breadth of topic throughout the year. The Chinese school, conducted by Chinese students for working men of their own race, again continues its useful service.

In addition to these more usual settlement activities, Denison House will carry forward this winter the special types of work which we have developed to meet the needs of our congested, complex little neighborhood. The records of our Department of Nursing and Neighborhood Hygiene for the past two years indicate the importance of this work.

	Year Ending October, 1914	Year Ending October, 1915	Increase
Patients treated	1,087	1,850	763
Attending evening clinic	921	1,151	230
Visits made by nurse	3,117	4,066	949

The Milk and Baby Hygiene Association Station at Denison House is established to keep well babies well. The nurse in charge presents the following report as compared to that of the previous year.

	Year Ending October, 1914	Year Ending October, 1915	Increase
Number of families	277	303	26
Number attending conference.....	1,535	1,930	395
Number of visits made.....	4,575	4,533	...
Nationalities	16	17	...

The change in nationalities in the two years is shown by the following interesting figures:

	1914	1915
Syrian.....	181	201
Italian.....	38	36
Irish.....	16	7
American.....	10	13
Greek.....	9	21

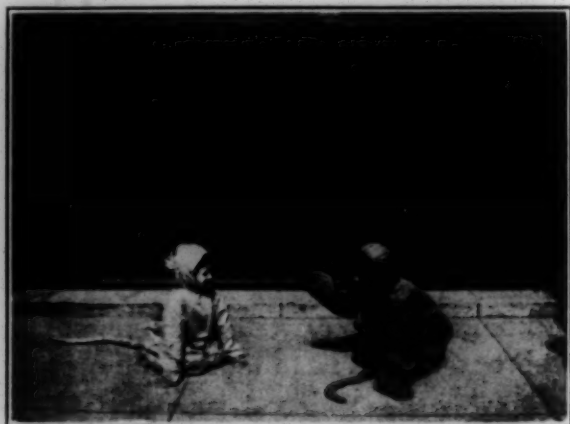

Other nationalities found at the clinics, but in smaller numbers are: Chinese, Russian Jew, Syrian Jew, Armenian, Austrian, Swiss, German, Norwegian, Scotch, Polish, Swedish, English, Canadian, French, Lithuanian, and Hawaiian.

The work of the Stamp Saving Society, which we carried on for many years in certain of the Boston shops, we have now definitely transferred to the Thrift Department of the Women's Educational and Industrial Union. The work of stamp savings in the neighborhood, however, we still undertake. There are at present 118 depositors.

The Music Department made use of the housekeeping flat for its lessons. Last year over 500 individual lessons were given. In order that the pupils may value what they are receiving, they are required to pay twenty-five cents a lesson and to become house members. If occasionally there are cases where this payment is impossible we find employment for the children about the settlement in order that they may earn their lessons. We lay emphasis on harmony and solfeggio lessons, for one of the aims of this department is to teach the pupils to become intelligent listeners. Those who cannot create, and who fail to become skilled players are thus trained to love good music, and to respond to the spiritual influence and the joy which music brings into their lives.

The work of the Italian Department proved its usefulness and its vitality in every phase of its activities. The Santa Lucia Club, the only organized Italian group which regards itself as an integral part of the Department, prospered under the devoted leadership of a corps of enthusiastic volunteers.

"THE CAT AND MOUSE ACT"

Given by one of the Settlement Clubs

The relation of the Circolo Italo-Americano to Denison House has been somewhat re-adjusted, and it now ranks as an independent organization of Italian men and women who gladly accept the hospitality of Denison House once a month, but who prefer to make no other demands upon Denison House funds.

A striking event of the winter for everyone interested in Italian work in Boston was the opening of the Ford Hall Italian Forum on Sunday afternoons. Our Italian Department co-operated effectively in this undertaking, giving up the lectures in the North End which we had carried on for so many years, so that there might be no division of interest, and distributing much of the publicity through the channels with which our experience had made us familiar. The overwhelming success of this venture has encouraged Mr. George W. Coleman to continue the Forum this coming winter. Again Denison House is glad to relinquish to another organization a piece of work for which we paved the way.

The Department has suffered an irreparable loss in the resignation of Miss Mary Gove Smith, who for many years has been the Director. The best tribute that could be paid to anyone, has been paid to Miss Smith by the steady pressing forward of all who were first inspired by her leadership toward the ends which she saw so clearly. Miss Helen Swords of Whittier House, Jersey City, has been appointed the new Director of the Italian Department.

By fostering the native artistic skill of the foreign-born, Denison House adds to the sum total of beauty in America and raises the standards of taste among consumers as well as among producers. Last year our needle-work sales amounted to $11,639.88. The income of 168 families was augmented thereby, and the hearts of the workers lightened. The social value of this work, however, cannot be reduced to statistics. This Department, an outgrowth of our Italian work, now numbers not only Italians, but Syrians, Armenians, and Greeks among its workers. Miss Florence Chase, the Executive, looks forward to a year of even greater activity than we have known before.

But after all, the most important work that the Settlement does, cannot be reduced to departmental statistics. It is the quiet, persistent, friendliness that we are able to offer the people of our district, day in and day out, that really counts—the calls we make upon them, the calls they make upon us, street corner conversations, the social outgrowth of all the more formal contacts which the clubs and departmental activities create. These are the things which take time and effort, which cannot be seen in a casual visit to the house, but which cannot be over-emphasized in any statement we may make about the settlement. The lack of a new building cannot interfere with this deeper, more fundamental work. For we must never forget, even as we press on to the strenuous activity of a new winter, that houses and equipment are only necessary details—it is the human touch upon the neighborhood, the personal quality of our life and our work that counts.

HEADWORKER'S REPORT

THE Settlement reopened October 1st, under the new arrangement of affiliation with the Social Service Corporation. Although the work is still being organized, several clubs and classes have started on a regular schedule.

Our Kindergarten registered forty seven children. We have decided to take only the three year and four year old applicants, sending the five and six year olds to the Public School. Since it was a very large class for one teacher, we were obliged to divide them into two groups. The class of three year olds is rapidly developing into a Day Nursery, a very much needed institution in the neighborhood. Volunteers from the Affordby Training School have been very kind in giving us their services.

A sale of clothing sent by friends of the settlement takes place twice a week, and is very popular with the neighbors.

Story Hour and Library are held three afternoons, with an enrollment of one hundred and sixteen children. It was found necessary to reserve one afternoon for the boys, and several groups have organized clubs in wood-cutting, games, etc. Children have applied for music lessons, and instruction in piano has begun. Three evening classes meet regularly with an average of thirty boys and girls. Two Boy Scout troops still await a leader, and the Girls' Camp Fire meets once a week.

A class in stenography is in progress and we are hoping to secure a teacher of mechanical drawing. A very interesting class in English for the interned German sailors meets three evenings a week.

We have been very fortunate in securing Miss Emily Griffith as a third resident. Miss Griffith is arranging classes in Sewing, Crocheting, and Practical Dressmaking.

We are hoping to establish Sunday evening concerts for our older neighbors, in order that they too may share the happy fellowship of a college settlement.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON FIELD SECRETARY

A NEW departure in the work of the Association was discussed with much interest at the spring meeting of the Board, and a special committee appointed to outline a plan of action. The intention is to broaden the field of the organizing secretary outside the colleges so that she may also assist groups of women living in smaller communities to organize various forms of social work, suited to local needs. Such a secretary would not necessarily encourage the growth of new settlements, but should help to focus local efforts in whatever field may best meet the needs of any given neighborhood. The headworkers of our settlements are more and more often appealed to for advice and encouragement by workers in nearby towns or suburbs on occasions when their own duties clearly forbid any such demands upon their time. It is therefore evident that the Association would meet a real need in offering the services of a field secretary. She would serve the purpose of bringing smaller communities into touch with our settlements and allowing them to profit by the experience gained in larger centers. With the growth of immigrant population in smaller centers and the development of local industries, the problems to be solved are not likely to differ greatly whether the town is small or large. But inexperienced beginners will more and more need the help and advice of persons rich in experience and insight.

It is evident that a mature person fully qualified to deal with heterogeneous groups of women should be secured for so important a position, and an ample salary must be assured. For the beginning at least, the services of the secretary should be rendered for the smallest possible expense to the group seeking her advice, perhaps requiring only traveling expenses and maintenance. For an experimental period, it is not anticipated that the demands upon the secretary's time would be so great as to conflict with her other important duties as organizing secretary in the colleges.

If the plan thus briefly outlined can be put into operation, it will be the first organized effort to draw upon the social resources of college women in smaller communities. It is appropriate that the C. S. A. should be the pioneer in such an undertaking. Hundreds of college women, who as members of alumnae chapters, have for years been giving financial support to the Association would welcome this direct and practical assistance. The new interest and enthusiasm aroused among them would inevitably strengthen the Association itself.

REPORT OF THE FELLOWSHIPS COMMITTEE

AT the meeting of the Fellowships Committee held at Mt. Ivy, Miss Elinor Jones, 1913, was appointed to the Smith-C. S. A. joint fellowship for 1915-16, with residence at Philadelphia. She accepted the appointment, and was to go to Philadelphia the first of October. In order to prepare herself the better for her winter's work, however, she took a summer position in a settlement in Minneapolis, and overworked to such an extent that the doctor, early in October, forbade her doing any work this winter. Thus there is as yet this year no Smith College graduate holding one of the C. S. A. fellowships.

Miss Hazel M. Witchie, Minnesota 1910, was appointed to the fellowship at large, when her references had proved satisfactory and the School of Philanthropy had accepted her, on the basis of her entrance examination, as the holder of a free tuition scholarship. She is now in residence at the New York Settlement.

After the meeting of the Committee in May, since Mrs. Tubby had succeeded in getting pledges for $200 for a Bryn Mawr-C. S. A., joint fellowship, and since the treasurer of the Association felt that the advantages to the C. S. A. of the more intimate connection with Bryn Mawr would warrant the expenditure of the extra money from the income of the Woerishoffer Fund, Miss Dorothy Weston, Bryn Mawr 1914, was appointed to a new joint fellowship, with residence at Philadelphia. Again through Mrs. Tubby's interest, the Bryn Mawr authorities have granted Miss Weston free tuition in the new department for social service; and Miss Weston is now living at the college settlement in Philadelphia, with Professor Kingsbury as the member of the committee in direct charge of her work so far as it affects the C. S. A.

GRACE P. FULLER, Chairman

REPORT OF THE PUBLICATION COMMITTEE

AT the Mt. Ivy meeting the question of changing the Annual Report was brought up. The Electoral Board felt that the report might be replaced by material, issued preferably at shorter intervals, that could yield larger returns and present a more adequate idea of the accomplishments and possibilities of College Settlements. The Board voted to leave the decision as to what form the new report should take in the hands of a Publication Committee. This Committee decided to try the experiment of publishing a small quarterly bulletin that should contain, besides the reports from the four settlements, articles setting forth the basic idea of College Settlements, and its applications beyond the confines of our own houses and neighborhoods. The first number of this very modest C. S. A. QUARTERLY was issued in September; we invite your criticisms and suggestions.

Confronted with the necessity of extending the publicity work of the Association, and at the same time of financing all publication work with the same appropriation that had published the annual report, the Committee found that it could print only the QUARTERLY unless someone else would foot the bills. The appeal of College Settlements among the undergraduates seemed particularly in need of strengthening, so the Committee decided to make a double virtue of necessity, and plans to run a series of three or four articles on the unique value and place of College Settlements in undergraduate life in the publications of the colleges having C. S. A. chapters. These articles will be written by women prominent in our national life, as well as in the C. S. A. Aside from economy, the Committee felt that such articles would be much more likely to be read in the college papers than in C. S. A. leaflets or bulletins. The colleges are enthusiastic, and the first article, by Miss Scudder, has already gone to them.

The Committee regrets to announce the resignation of Mrs. Colburn, whose advice, by reason of her experience as Organizing Secretary, was particularly helpful. The Committee recommends that the new Organizing Secretary be appointed, ex officio, to take her place. It further recommends that the person in each settlement who takes charge of printing and publicity be appointed to the Committee in order that uniform printed matter may be used as far as possible, and that all good ideas for publicity may be pooled and put at the disposal of all settlements.

ELIZABETH R. HIRSH, Chairman

REPORT OF THE SPEAKERS' COMMITTEE

THE Speakers' Committee began its work by sending, early in the fall, to every undergraduate elector (except Vassar, in which college we were unable to obtain the elector's name) a copy of the following letter:

MY DEAR MISS _____:

The Speakers' Committee of the College Settlements Association is eager to be helpful to your Chapter, and to you as its Elector, in every way possible. To this end will you kindly write me at once, at the above address, answering the following questions.

1. How many meetings does your Chapter hold during the year 1915-16?
2. What are the probable dates of these meetings?
3. The Speakers' Committee advises each Chapter to have a speaker on the work of the Association at a meeting in the early fall. Would you like us to send you a speaker on this subject for your first meeting?
4. Would you like the Committee to supply you with speakers on other phases of social work and interest?
5. Have you a preference for any particular speaker?

A prompt reply, putting us in touch without delay, will be most valuable.

Yours truly,

MARY P. TUBBY.

Only three electors failed to respond to this letter. Smith, Radcliffe and Wellesley reported programs already arranged, speakers engaged, and good plans for a prosperous year. Wells, Goucher and Swarthmore asked for speakers.

Through the New York Settlement, Miss Larned was secured as speaker for Wells, and the committee takes pleasure in printing the elector's cheery letter in regard to this engagement:

OCTOBER 22, 1915

MY DEAR MRS. TUBBY:

Thank you for your trouble in securing us a speaker.

We will expect Miss Larned, Tuesday, October 26th. The time we have arranged for her to speak is Tuesday evening at seven o'clock. We are so glad she is able to come, as I have heard much about her.

We have accommodations ready for her here at the college with us, and will see that she is well taken care of.

Yes, indeed, I will ask her questions, for there are so many things we want to hear about that she will be kept busy answering them.

The enclosed check is for her expenses.

I'll write you later about the meeting and the help she brings us.

Very sincerely,

PAULINE MORGAN

Miss Davies, headworker of the Philadelphia Settlement, is to speak at Swarthmore, Sunday night, November 7th, and the committee have promised to send some one to Goucher on the 9th of December.

The committee stands ready to furnish speakers on social work to the Alumnae Chapters of the C. S. A. to the Sub-chapters, or to college clubs.

It will welcome suggestions for growth in its usefulness, and it will be glad of additions to its list of speakers.
